

TRAINING

Delivering world-class online training in government, policy-making and communications skills

To ensure everyone has access and can learn from our training, we also deliver all courses virtually. Dods Training covers a wide range of subjects including policy making, governance, leadership and management, communication skills and media handling.

In these challenging times, it has possibly never been more important to keep ourselves busy, support our colleagues and utilise the time to develop whilst working from home. Our training adds value and provides guidance, allowing employees to feel part of the organisation whilst working remotely.

Working with Dods Training means you'll benefit from tailored courses. From identifying the best ways to work remotely, maximising productivity or refining your understanding of policy making and parliamentary procedures, our bespoke online training delivers practical exercises and individualised feedback.

We are aware many organisations have different online restrictions, therefore teams who are working remotely can access our range of online courses across multiple platforms.

“ Dods were very quick to respond and adapt the scheduled face to face course, to an online version, amidst the COVID-19 crisis. Not only did they deliver this for us, but they were able to deliver other courses using a similar format, at very short notice.

They were responsive to feedback from the first session which they immediately built into the next. This produced a much better engagement for all the delegates involved.

– Policy Capability Lead, Ministry of Justice (MOJ)

New courses you might find helpful at this time include:

- How to maximise productivity and manage teams in unsettling times
- Persuading and influencing at work
- Developing emotional resilience
- What happens next? Defining a new UK relationship with the EU

Specialist Training Areas:

Policy

Communications

Media

Select Committees

Leadership / Management

Dods is an internationally recognised and respected name in training and has an unparalleled reputation across the public sector for providing outstanding training courses. Dods Training is a long-standing partner to the UK Government and European Union and also a supplier to Civil Service Learning.

For more information on the training available or to get a consultation on your specific training needs contact Alice McDavid at alice.mcdavid@dodsgroup.com | +44 (0) 7880 195 011