

How Policy Works: upcoming webinar

Developing policy in a rapidly changing environment is not without its challenges. Whether it's finding a suitable evidence base to produce a range of policy options or working out how to manage competing demands from an increasingly diverse group of stakeholders, getting the basics right is more important than ever.

In this hour-long session, we'll provide a high-level overview for anyone interested in how policy works. Based around 8 core principles, the session brings together a variety of sources, personal experience and case studies into an introductory workshop that will provide delegates with the basics and introduces them to a flavour of what we offer on the full one-day course.

This free-to-attend webinar is aimed at those new to policy, particularly those joining from outside the civil service or moving across from operational roles, this one-hour lunchtime session gives you nearly everything you need to know about how policy works.
